Program News

September program:

Come join the Binding Bonanza! You may even learn a new way to add that final step to your quilt!

Chat with the President

September. Temperatures are cooler, school has begun, and our quilt show is being planned!! Entry and Registration forms are on CPQ website for you to print and bring to our guild meeting Sept 13 or mail to Paula. Registration is due Sept. 22.

There will be business cards available for everyone to take and distribute informing the public about our quilt show. Posters are also available to post at your favorite place of business.

The August workshop, "Understanding the Rainbow" was excellent. Our own color wheel was created and hopefully will be displayed at our quilt show. Lee Monroe, the speaker, was very informative. We hope to bring her back for another lecture and workshop!

Next month is Binding Bonanza! New techniques to try, maybe on this year's quilt for the show!

Keep quilting, see you in September.

Community Outreach

Carolyn Gibbons

Thank you to all the wonderful ladies who have participated in our QOV project for Community Outreach. We have 3 quilt tops and possibly one more to contribute. We will meet again at the Aiken County Museum, only the date has to change. We will now meet on the second Tuesday of the month - starting on September 14 (the day after our guild meeting). I would like to finish up with QOV in September and mail them off. If you have anything left to work on, try to have it by the meeting (or at least when we sit and sew again). We will continue to work on finishing up everything that month.

Looking ahead, October is Breast Cancer awareness month. We will have some projects to work on that month. I will have kits to make Bosom Buddies (seat belt cushions), Lydia bags and pillows. If you have fiberfill you would like to donate for the pillows, that would be awesome. More details at the next meeting. AGAIN - THANK YOU, THANK YOU - WE COULD NOT HAVE DONE IT WITHOUT YOU!!

Bio for Cathi Gainey, judge for the 2021 quilt show

Cathi made her first quilt in her senior year of high school in the mid-70's and has been quilting steadily ever since. She has taught and lectured on both quilting and wool appliqué at guilds, retreats and small groups for the past 20 years.

Cathi owned a quilt shop called Quilters Market and Dry Goods in Rock Hill, South Carolina for several years. More recently, she owned and operated Shakerwood Woolens specializing in wool and wool appliqué. Opened in 2010, she attended quilt shows as a vendor selling hand-dyed wools as well as many types of cotton, linen and specialty fabrics. Vending at up to 22 shows per year for the 10 years in business gave her the opportunity to view thousands of quilts of every type, size and quality as well as talk with quilters from all over the world.

As a board member of Quilters of South Carolina for over 7 years, Cathi wore many hats. Included in the list of jobs was Membership, Newsletter, Assistant Quilt Retreat chair, Webmaster and District 2 rep.
